Keeping children safe from violence

The 6th international National Centre Against Bullying Conference brings the most recent research on strategies and solutions to help reduce the prevalence and impact of bullying and cyberbullying. This year, in 'Beyond the Schoolyard', we are exploring how bullying affects very young children, university students and young people in the workplace. We look at how bullying intersects with gender and mental health issues and provide challenging, interesting and solution-focused seminars, round-tables and research symposia. An audience of around 500 attendees across the two days will range from teachers, parents, researchers, education consultants and HR departments who will have the opportunity to network with thought leaders on bullying issues.
